

Fire Safety Training Program

Fire prevention training educates FSU employees on ways to minimize fire hazards in their work area. The training informs employees the appropriate steps to take during a fire alarm activation and what actions to take during an emergency.

The training discusses basic information about mass notification, fire alarm, and sprinkler systems that are installed in Florida State University facilities. Fire Safety provides training that prepares FSU employees for steps to take during building evacuation from a fire alarm activation and how to use a portable fire extinguisher in an emergency. Fire extinguishers are provided throughout FSU buildings as required by the Florida Fire Prevention Code for occupant safety. Portable fire extinguishers are considered the first line of defense against incipient fires and Fire Safety training instructs employees in their proper selection and use.
